Assemblin EI strengthens its position in the Uppsala region, Sweden, with the acquisition of J&C EI

Assemblin EI has acquired the well-positioned electrical engineering company J.Östling & C.Sparf EI AB (J&C EI), operating in Uppsala region. J&C EI has annual sales of approximately SEK 45 million and 28 employees.

Since its founding in 2011, J&C EI has developed into a strong and professional electrical engineering company with a loyal customer base. The customer mix contains a variety of property companies, industries, construction companies, municipalities, and private individuals with a high level of service.

– Uppsala, Sweden’s fourth largest city, is a strategic location for us, where we have been actively looking to grow. J&C EI is a stable company with a healthy customer base and the same high demands on quality, efficiency, and safety as we have at Assemblin. Together, we will achieve the critical mass to take on larger assignments and continue expansion in and around Uppsala, says Fredrik Allthin, President and Business Area Manager for Assemblin EI.

– We are proud of the business we have built and feel it is time to take the next step in our development. For us, finding an owner with a similar ambitious outlook is crucial, and we feel certain that with Assemblin we have found a professional and operations-focused owner. We are convinced that this is beneficial for our employees and customers, who will also gain access to a broader range of technical competence, say Christer Sparf and Joakim Östling, managers of J&C EI.
